To Whom It May Concern:

On April 6, 2005, I couldn't walk and was diagnosed with a complex tear of my right lateral meniscus. Surgery was not an option as I'm going on vacation beginning May 1st. My doctor suggested I try physical therapy and, since a colleague at work was getting great results for his post-surgical rotator cuff rehabilitation, I scheduled my first appointment with Core Conditioning on April 8th.

Fast forward less than 2 weeks and 6 sessions later...my range of motion is almost completely normal, I'm astonishingly pain-free, I've resumed normal activity and exercise, and I'm walking without a limp.

This whole experience has been amazing...the facility is superb, the atmosphere is serene, the staff is friendly and supportive, and the physical therapists really know their stuff. Without them, I'd have to cancel my trip and have surgery. Instead, I'm headed for a 3-week European second honeymoon.

Very gratefully yours,

Cathy Marcus
